Shearer Road Mountain Bike Trail

This is a 4.6 mile stretch of winding, single track, mostly flat terrain. There are rocks and roots, tight passes, narrow board bridges, log ramps and some other slick challenges. This trail is groomed for faster riding. It is a very good trail for intermediate riders with bypasses for the novice who wants to take it slower and build confidence on the challenges.

Directions to the Trailhead:
Take Shearer Road north to the second drive on left. The parking is behind the City Transfer Station at the gate.

Address:
1758 Shearer Rd
Greenville, MI 48838

Edwards Creek Mountain Bike Trail

This is a 7.35 mile stretch of winding, single track trail with something for everybody. This trail has a good variety of terrain making frequent gear changes necessary to negotiate short, intense climbs; downhills that will test the brakes and nerve; lots of rocks and roots; tight passes; log and structure crossings; and lots of off-camber trail and tricks to keep you on your toes. This trail is tight, technical and very challenging. It is well suited for intermediate and expert riders with a shorter bypass loop for the novice. Bring your technical skills and endurance.

Directions to the Trailhead:
Take Walnut Street north from M-57. The entrance to Alan G. Davis Park is on the right near the bike crossing striping. The trailhead is on the left, just before parking area. It is marked with a kiosk.

Address:
110 S. Walnut
Greenville, MI 48838
